PRaise JAIL AT FITCHBURG

FITCHBURG, Feb. 24.—The legislative committee on Prisons began its investigation of the Fitchburg jail today.

After the hearing the committee voted the bill, where the hearing is being held. The first witnesses heard today were Rev. John J. McCarthy, pastor of St. Boniface's Church in Fitchburg, who is the chaplain of the jail, and two newspapermen, Charles H. Morse and Daniel P. O'Connell, all of whom testified that they had frequently visited the jail, but they had never heard any of the prisoners complain of their treatment.

Rev. John J. McCarthy said: "I believe, as a result of my constant observation, that the Fitchburg jail is one of the best in the best jail in the country. The conduct of the officers is above suspicion. This was the sentiment of the newspapermen, who added the committee that they had constant during the last few years to visit the jail at certain intervals and had had a good opportunity to observe the existing conditions."

PASS NEW BABY FARM MEASURE

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 24.—While not reversing their sentiment in favor of legislation favoring a closer supervision and regulation of maternity houses and so-called "baby farms" in New Hampshire, the State Senators have killed the Hall bill, which was passed by the House and have accepted and passed, as a substitute, a similar bill offered by Senator A. J. Langer of Nashua.

It was claimed for the Langer bill that it better met the conditions and was equally acceptable to the House, and would be passed by that body.

Action by the Legislature for "baby farm" reform is due to Mary Boyle (Philly), who drew the attention of the State to the conditions that were practiced in some maternity institutions, and secured employment of several and placed facts at first hand.

HEARST ATTACKS POSTAL INCREASE PROTEST GRANT

Urges Patriotic Citizens to Fight It as Blow at Popular Education.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The Washington Post publishes the following letter from the editor of the Boston Herald, dated Feb. 23, 1911:

"Dear Mr. Hearst:—I have recently supported many of your measures and am not at all disposed to consider them valueless to the country and worthy of support and of every man's support."

"The measure, therefore, of Mr. Taft's which I suggested were abolished entirely upon the basis of principle and the general welfare. The question of revenue is a matter of fact, which I am not going to support and of every man's support."

"It is true that I and a number of other people are interested in the measure and that I would be glad to see it passed. But I am not going to support it as a measure of principle, but as a measure of fact. I think it is a blow at popular education."

"I supported Mr. Taft's proposition, although even of my publications are incorporated and have not the tax. Furthermore I consider these publications in corporate form. I could at any moment transfer them into personal publications and avoid the tax."

"Furthermore, I am one of the most ardent advocates of Mr. Taft's tax. I think, although I will not be a considerable tax payer under that system when it becomes a law."

"It is only reasonable, therefore, to assume that if opposing this measure, I am not going to support it as a measure of principle, but as a measure of fact. I think it is a blow at popular education."

"I am not going to support it as a measure of principle, but as a measure of fact. I think it is a blow at popular education."

Every Citizen Should Fight Postage Raise

This proposition of the Post Office Department is, in my mind, so dangerous as to call for the opposition of every patriotic citizen in the United States. I would go so far as to say that if this measure should become a law it would be the simple duty of every thoughtful American citizen who believes in popular education and realizes that the safe conduct of a republic depends upon the educated intelligence of its people, to do his utmost to administer the severest possible rebuke to the administration responsible for so dangerous and disastrous a measure.

From letter of William R. Hearst to John Temple Graves.

"The Post Office Department is now proposing a law to increase the postage on all letters and on all newspapers and magazines. This is a very dangerous measure, and it is the duty of every patriotic citizen to oppose it. The Post Office Department is now proposing a law to increase the postage on all letters and on all newspapers and magazines. BIG FIGHTING PLANT FIGHT ON FLOOR OF HOUSE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 24.—The purchase within the last few weeks of large areas of land in and around Rhode Island, extending for a mile and a half along both sides of the Pawtucket River, abetted today, in advance of its submission, a project of a power plant of 100,000 horsepower to be situated there one of the largest commercial developments in the state.

The purpose of the plant is to enable the Pawtucket River, which flows into the Pawtucket River, to be used for the production of electricity.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Another bloodless battle was fought on the floor of the House during a debate on a bill for the leasing of coal lands in Alaska. The bill was introduced by Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming.

The big Alaskan's right arm shot out in the direction of Mr. Mondell. The House was in an uproar in an instant. Several members hurried toward Mr. Mondell.

Representative Parker of Vermont had taken Mr. Mondell by the throat. This added to the uncontrolled rage of the House. The bill was passed.

CARUSO HAS LOST HIS VOICE

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 24.—Puccini's Caruso, the Italian tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is here for the benefit of his health, although outward appearances would not suggest, even in the most remote degree, that anything was the matter with him. It is only when he attempts to hold conversation that one discovers he has completely lost the use of his voice.

Caruso consented to whisper to a reporter, so he does not talk out loud now.

FINDS POULTRY DISEASE CAUSE

Following the discovery of such illness, which he declares he has traced to the consumption of poultry, Dr. William B. Hadden has written the State Board of Health asking it to place upon its regulations a ruling that, as well as all of the food for consumption, should be dressed immediately after killing.

Dr. Hadden points out the fact that there is absolutely no law which provides that fowl shall be dressed immediately after killing. He backs up his views with scientific facts, and points out the necessity of a law which will regulate the dressing of poultry.
